Airport gets a new look

Huntsville International Airport's new public waiting area, where passengers can meet friends and family without going through security, opened last week. Included in the nearly year-and-a-half long project is "Huntsville's Discovery Wall" where visitors can click on a monitor to get the story behind each picture on the wall. The work, which should be complete by the end of the year, is part of the airport's five-year, $65 million capital improvement project.
